Telefunken Ela-M 251

To many the Telefunken 251 needs no introduction, it is considered one of the greatest sounding microphones ever made. Original examples can sell for up to $20,000, leading even the Wall Street Journal to acknowledge it as one of the top investments of the 20th century!

Telefunken USA realizes the importance of this microphone and has taken on the challenge of bringing it back into production. The approach was simple-No compromises would be tolerated. The result is 100% made in the USA in the old world tradition of meticulous hand assembly by skilled technicians. Where possible, original suppliers were used to source components, everything from the mylar of the diaphragm to the output transformer, tip to toe of the microphone if you will. What was not available was reversed engineered to exacting aerospace tolerances. The result simply is the legendary Telefunken 251.

The obvious and most well known application for the Telefunken 251 microphone is the recording of Male and Female vocals. Its performance in this regard is hard to overstate, it is the sound you have heard on classic recordings and multi-million dollar modern productions in all styles of music. What you may not have known is that it is not a "one trick pony". As a favorite of top producers, saxophones, guitars, drums, percussion and many other instruments have benefited from what another microphone manufacturer called "one of the finest and most sought after vintage mics ever built".

The Telefunken 251 is now available again new, at a price that is less than the vintage equivalents. Finally, the peace of mind of a new product with full factory support and warranty service meets the hearts desire for the sound that has created countless hit records and touched literally millions of people. However, like all great works of art, the process of creation takes time. The 251 will initially be offered in very limited quantities to assure the highest possible quality and customer satisfaction. Please contact Telefunken USA for more information.
